

Thanks to Jim; Johua Cain; and to scdegraaf for sharing the show at Dime.

scdegraaf noted:

When I first listened how the sound was on this recording I was not enthusiastic. After working on the volumes it sounded a lot better. Next I did some further editing and the result is a good recording. As I hadn't listened to anything by Alejandro in a year I was curious what he'd be doing with this band and whether there'd be any new songs (his last album dates from 2012). No surprises: new songs or a special setlist but Alejandro never puts on a bad show.
