Thanks to kingrue for sharing the show at The Traders’ Den.

kingrue noted:

This was almost 35 years ago. One of the largest protests in New York history. On June 12, 1982, Anti-nuclear protesters filled Central Park, upwards of one million people gathered on the Great Lawn to peacefully rally against nuclear weapons and the nuclear arms race that continued to rage between the United States and the Soviet Union. The protest called for complete disarmament of US weapons and an end to the arms race that perpetuated the long-standing Cold War. I thought this would be suitable today to share in light of our current state of affairs and its upheaval of what many see as ominous days ahead. Nuclear waste and weapons were and still does cast a dark cloud over the planet and mankind. Decades later it still remains a threat, for new and various reasons.

It seems the radio station was having technical difficulties which caused the first track to start in progress. Track 20, Plutonium Is Forever, has a small tape cut @ 0:42. The last song, “Get Together” (The Youngbloods cover), is nearly complete as it cuts off at the very end of the tape. Obviously this is not the whole show, just a big chunk of it. The start of the show actually had Orson Wells talking for about 12 minutes to the crowd. One song I know is missing is a duet with Linda and James, "I Think Its Gonna Work Out Fine" (not included here). Thanks goes to BR for taping this off the radio so many years ago.
